FOREWORD

はじめに (hajimeni)

The drinks list at Sakana is designed with the intention of supporting our food; with this in mind may we suggest a few food and wine matching tips.

The more Spice a dish has, we recommend the wine be sweeter and lower in tannin such as Riesling, Pinot Gris or Chenin Blanc.

The more Fat a dish has we would advise that wine should be higher in acid or tannin for example Cabernet Sauvignon with steak, or Chardonnay with our grilled black Cod.

If the dish is difficult to match don't forget sparkling wines, beer and sake; they are all very versatile.

And drink what you like nothing is more important than your own tastes.

We understand this is a long list. If you feel a bit lost, please feel free to ask for advice, we are more than happy to talk about anything listed.

MACEDON RANGES HIGHLIGHT

マセドン山脈 (macedon sanmyaku)

Daylesford is located on the western edge of the Macedon Ranges, where some of Australia's coolest climate vineyards are located. Always in small quantities from tiny parcels of land, varieties seen in this region are old world style Chardonnay and lightweight, elegant Pinot Noir. The region is also renowned for its sparkling wine.

BINDI WINE GROWERS

"Dhillon crafts spectacularly refined, delicate, compact and multi-layered Chardonnays (and Pinot Noirs) of great precision" Decanter, August 2012. These words are even more true today - these wines are without question among the greatest in the country. Everyone should try them once and be lucky enough to drink them regularly.

2015	Pinot Noir		150
2006	Syrah		110

CURLY FLAT

The most well-known winery in the Macedon Ranges, and with good reason. These are classic wines - bold in flavour and personality. Always delicious; the rich character of the Pinots make them ideal foils to red meats with heavier sauces. The Pinot Gris makes a great aperitif for a large group.

DOMAINE EPIS

After a successful football career in the 1950's and 1960's Angelo Epis opened his eponymous winery. With two vineyards, one in Woodend specialising in Pinot Noir and Chardonnay, and one in Kyneton focusing on Bordeaux varieties, this winery offers a great range of wines.

JOSHUA COOPER

Local, young gun of wine, Joshua Cooper, honed his craft at the family winery (Cobaw ridge), in Burgundy and in Portugal before make his first solo effort in 2013. The wines are made with a natural methodology. In the coming years this will be one of the benchmarks for great cool climate Australian wine.

2017	Pinot Noir	Doug's Vineyard	130
2014	Syrah (Heathcote, Vic)	The Springs	118

PASSING CLOUDS

Daylesford's closest winery. In 1998 when Graeme Leith was planting Pinot Noir and Chardonnay on a hill in Musk everyone told him he was mad. Well we are glad he didn't listen. These wines are some of the best of the region; balancing vineyard management and winemaking perfectly.

2016	Pinot Noir	Fools on the Hill	110

PLACE OF CHANGING WINDS

Inspired by the great estates of Burgundy, Robert Walters, Importer and now winemaker, runs one of the most densely planted vineyard's in the world. Despite the Vineyards youth, it is producing Pinot Noir of incredible depth.

2016	Pinot Noir	Clos de la Connerie	150
------	------------	---------------------	-----

RILLHOUSE

The vineyard is over thirty years ago. Chardonnay and a small amount of sauvignon blanc are planted. but it wasn't until the vineyard was purchased by Caroline Aebersold and Richard Price in 2013 that it started being bottled under its own name.

2017	Sauvignon blanc	Well Groomed Goose	82
2017	Chardonnay	My Deer Bride	114

SAKE

日本酒 (nihonshu)

Sake is a drink made from fermented rice and Koji. Normally between 14% and 18% alcohol, Sake has more viscosity and is less acidic than wine, it displays a wide range of flavours: from the slightly sweet sparkling styles to rich and complex aged examples. A chilled Junmai might taste of white flowers and peaches whereas a warm Ginjo may be reminiscent of vanilla and quince. Sake is best enjoyed with salty foods such as our Tempura Oysters.

AUSTRALIAN SPARKLING

オーストラリアン スパークリング (ōsutorarian supākuringu)

Champagne might get all the fame, and we certainly have plenty of it, but Australia makes some sparkling wine that is just as complex and more importantly just as delicious than any of the French examples. These are serious wine. Not afterthoughts by their producers, high in acid and some with lees aging in the decades they are just as suited to matching with pork belly as raising a celebratory toast.

Sauvignon Blanc is highly drinkable; with its high acidity, tropical and citric fruits and herbaceous. Thankfully unfashionable nowadays your money will go a lot further than some other white grapes, Australia's style is distinct that of from New Zealand and France, with its ripeness and lees aging.

Orange or Amber wine is some ways the opposite of Rose. White wines that have been left on their skins to develop more flavour and colour. This can be disastrous producing horrid wines, but sometimes when one knows what they are doing they are complex wines displaying an amazing range of tastes.

PINOT NOIR

ピノ・ノワール (pino nowāru)

"...Pinot Noir is in peasant plots. Pinot Noir is of the earth. There's that part of Pinot Noir that is decay. There's a sort of fleetingness about it, there's a purity. It's refreshing. It's without clutter." Richard Sanford.

SHIRAZ AND OTHERS

シラーズ (shirāzu)

Shiraz or Syrah call it what you like. We Australians are fanatics be it; a rich and jammy Barossa valley example, a meaty and sanguine Heathcote drop, or a spicely and lighter bottle from the Northern Rhone.
